

To all customer

"Otoshi" is a small appetizer served in Japanese Izakaya restaurants to customers who are charged a seat or service fee. Originally, customers would only pay the fee without receiving anything in return, so the small plates are served as a way to thank the customer for paying the fee. This is the "Otoshi," which is served to the customer, and the fee is collected as a seat or service charge.

This is Japanese culture and is done basically everywhere in Japan.

In our restrant, we charge 429 yen (tax included) per adult.

Sincerely,
JUEN Group CEO
